1. General news

We often take things for granted, especially if things are going well. But occasionally we all suffer a set back and one of the most concerning is over health. This may affect us directly or just as worryingly a loved one or friend. Whilst the professionals who look after the sick do their part, it falls to us to maintain good spirits and stay positive. It is at times like these that it is good to be able to fall back on our hobbies to give us a lift in difficult times. Time spent on a hobby can help us escape from our concerns for a little while. We hope this newsletter finds you well, but whatever your situation remember your hobbies, they can be the best medicine.
